PHILLIPS HOSPITALIZED

State Rep. Walter James Phillips has been released from Hancock General Hospital, a hospital spokesman said Saturday.

The legislator was hospitalized after returning to Bay St. Louis from Jackson Thursday. He was reported to be suffering from high blood pressure.

He remained in the hospital's intensive care unit until Friday, when he was moved to a private room for treatment, the spokesman said.

Annunciation School will close May 29 due to funding problems but school officials plan to maintain pre-kindergarten and kindergarten programs for the 1985-86 school year.

Registration for the pre-kindergarten program for four and five-year-olds will open Jan. 28 through Feb. 8 from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the school office.

More information can be obtained by calling the office at 255-1869.

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club and Adams' committee will be responsible for the distribution.

Kathy Fernandez, poster chairman, announced that her committee will hold three different contests for school age children.

A coloring the can for first, second and third graders, poster and name the can contests details will be available at a later date.

The front of the Chamber of Commerce should be designated as the bright spot committee's challenge.

Dorothy Sutton suggested utilizing DUT's, as she did in Waveland. A new group called the "Low Tiders" was presented by Martha Van Peski. This group would be formed of senior citizens, concerned citizens and youth groups to pick up glass, cans, and trash at low tides on the beach.

Mrs. Brameyer, representing Alice Newkirk and the Bay-Waveland Garden Club, invited the Beautification Committee to purchase tickets for a preview party in conjunction with the Antique Show and Sale sponsored by the Bay-Waveland Garden Club.

The party will be held Thursday, Feb. 21 from 6-9 p.m. at the St. Augustine Seminary for a donation of $10.

The profits from the show will be used to purchase crepe myrtle trees for Hancock County.

Cuevas reported he plans to meet with the supervisors and the mayors to declare March, "Clean-Up Month." March was designated because of the Hancock County Garden Club Pilgrimages.

Underwood reported the War on Ugliness Workshop is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 25 to be held at the Coast Electric crew room.

Registration will be at 9:30 a.m. and the workshop will be from 10 a.m. until noon. Everyone is encouraged to attend.

The next meeting of the Beautification Committee is scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 7 at 2 p.m. in the chamber board room.

Hilda L. Bourg is publicity chairman for the Beautification Committee.

Clinic burglary attempt reported

Officials at the New Woman Medical Clinic Friday reported an attempted burglary at the US-90 facility sometime during the night.

Investigator Joe Pica said someone had tried to pry open a side window on the building, but that no entry had been gained.

"We were able to lift a fingerprint from the window and believe it belongs to the suspect because it was the only print on the window," Pica said.

He added that they also had a photograph of a footprint found near the window.

School board discusses repairs

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County School Board discussed school repairs and gave final approval for bus purchases Saturday morning after spending nearly two hours in an executive session meeting with a parent.

The session was called to enable Harold Franke, parent of a Hancock North Central student, to address the board.

Board President Billie Lyons said personnel matters were discussed. The board took no action on the matter.

Repairs discussed included proposals for the repair of leaking water lines at Clermont Harbor School. The repair work is expected cost about $670.

The board also agreed to obtain proposals on the repair of several skylights at Hancock North Central Elementary School. The skylights allow water to leak into the building, Lyons said.

In addition, the board gave final approval to a plan to purchase 10 buses.

Earlier this month, the board of supervisors approved the funding for the purchase, which will upgrade the district's bus fleet by replacing some of its older vehicles.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph reported.

The board also approved spending $8,000 in addition to the cost of the buses to convert the vehicles to propane.

In addition, the board approved the hiring of a Chapter I aide, a temporary office clerk and two substitute teachers for Hancock North Central; an assistant teacher; two Chapter I aides, two substitute teachers and an in-school monitor for Gulfview Elementary; and a detention monitor for Charles B. Murphy Elementary.

Also approved were several travel requests for teachers and administrators attending conferences. A meeting with architect Fred Wagner, who was expected to address the board Saturday, was postponed. Wagner is expected to discuss the district's building program at a later meeting.

The board accepted two proposals on the construction of six classrooms at Gulfview Elementary into its records but postponed any discussion on them until Wagner can be present.

Chief promises 'clean-up' at Sycamore and St. Francis

Police to scrutinize The Corner again

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

A renewed effort is underway to "clean up" the intersection of Sycamore and St. Francis Streets, Murray Ladner, acting Bay police chief, said Friday.

Ladner his officers were to begin Saturday to strictly enforce the 15 miles per hour speed limit, loitering and littering restrictions and parking regulations in the area.

Eighty percent of the crime in the surrounding area originates from the crowds that gather on the street corners at this intersection, Ladner said.

Ladner also said in the past six months there have been several incidents, including a shooting and a knife fight reported in the area.

He also said several drug-related problems have originated in the area.

"Drug business is so prevalent in the area, Ladner said, sellers will almost flag down people in vehicles to sell their wares.

"The problem is so bad, that when a unit goes into the area, you have to take the whole force, and then call for back-up," Ladner said.

"An officer can't leave the car because the tires will be cut," he added.

Lounge owner Willie Acker said he is 100 percent in favor of the actions of the police department.

"I don't want people who come to visit me or my establishment (The Can) to think this is a ghetto," Acker said.

There are several hard-working people who have invested in this community, and should have the right to enjoy the fruits of their labor, he added.

Acker said it is not unknown for school children getting off the bus at the corner to find persons gambling and to hear profanity.

"Children should be able to walk to the playground through this neighborhood and not be afraid and travelers should be able to stop at the intersection without being afraid of being mugged," Acker said.

Acker, along with other property owners at the intersection, are in the process of giving police officers permission to enforce the loitering and littering laws on their property. They are also going to limit parking on their property to business hours.

"It is time that we take more pride in the area that we live and work in, and I hope everyone will support the police department's actions," Acker said.

"If we don't keep the streets clean, we encourage the wrong kind of people to congregate," he said.

Ladner recommended that people go to the parks on Washington or Booker streets, instead of gathering at the Sycamore-St. Francis intersection.

"They can go over to the parks all they want and we will not fool with them unless a problem arises," Ladner said.

According to Ladner, there have been several instances in which the road has been blocked by cars parked on the road or on the city right of way, or by vehicles stopped in the road while people talk.

Parking is restricted on Sycamore Street, from the railroad tracks to Old Spanish Trail, and on St. Francis Street, from Booker to Washington Street.

"Beginning Saturday, if someone parks a car in the restricted area, they can call the station to find out which wrecking yard it is in," Ladner said.

Ladner said he was making the announcement publicly because there would be no exceptions made.

"We expect the no parking signs to be torn down, but cars parked in the restricted area will still be towed away," he said.

Bay St. Louis street department employees installed new traffic signs Friday, including the speed limit, no parking and additional stop signs.

Officers will be running radars in the area as well as writing citations for littering, Ladner said.

"If someone throws a beer bottle or a piece of paper down, they are going to have to pay," he said.

Additional streetlights are also planned for the area.

Ladner said the Sycamore-St. Francis intersection is not being singled out—other areas are also being watched for possible "clean-up."

Rail magazine honors Limited as outstanding train of '84

BY DENA BISNETTE

A railroad magazine has honored the Gulf Coast Limited for its promotion of passenger rail travel.

Although the Louisiana-Mississippi-Alabama Rapid Rail Transit Commission was unable to generate enough funding to keep the Gulf Coast Limited running, the train was honored Friday by Rail Travel News.

Adrian Hall, a correspondent for the magazine, presented Commission Chairman James W. McFarland with a plaque naming the Limited the magazine's outstanding train of 1984.

Hall made the presentation Friday at a commission meeting in Gulfport.

"The Gulf Coast Limited succeeded in spite of opposition and inaccurate predictions of insufficient ridership," Hall said.

"It was one of the most talked about and worked for trains of the year."

The Limited's Mobile, Ala., to New Orleans, La., run was planned to continue only as long as the New Orleans World's Fair, but the train generated enough ridership to continue until Jan. 6.

The train was operated by Amtrak and funded through federal funding and money provided by the commission.

The Limited ended its run when Mississippi refused to guarantee further funding, according to Delmar Wilcox of Waveland, a member of the Mississippi delegation at the commission meeting.

Alabama and Louisiana have already guaranteed funding, however, and commission members already have projects underway to raise money to reinstate the train.

The commission kicked off one of those projects, sales of a recording promoting the train, at Friday's meeting.

The record sales project is headed by two Gulf Coast women, Susan Shaughnessy and Brenda Pope. The assistance of New Orleans songwriters Glenda Carroll and Carroll performed her song, "The Little Train that Could if Mississippi Would," for commission members and sold some of the first tapes of it Friday.

Also recruited to help with the promotion of the Limited is recording artist Willie Nelson, who has agreed to sing Carroll's song at a Feb. 9 concert in New Orleans and at later concerts.

Pass woman killed in Thursday crash

A Pass Christian woman died in a Thursday morning wreck on U.S.-90.

Dorothy Mae Payne, 41, was pronounced dead at the accident scene by Harrison County Coroner Steve Delahousay after her vehicle collided with a car driven by Raymond McCrea, 44, of Long Beach.

According to a report from the Pass Christian Police Department, the accident occurred at about 8 a.m. when Payne pulled out of a parking lot near the intersection of U.S.-90 and Hayden Avenue and into the path of McCrea's car.

McCrea was headed west on the highway, police said. Payne was apparently trying to get into the east-bound lane.

McCrea sustained minor injuries but refused treatment at the scene.

Also suffering minor injuries was Payne's son, Anthony Murrell, 16, who was a passenger in her vehicle. He was treated at Memorial Hospital in Gulfport.

No charges have been filed in connection with the accident, a police spokesman said.

Three arrested Thursday for house burglaries

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department has arrested an adult and two juveniles in connection with recent burglaries in Shoreline Park.

According to Sheriff Ronald Peterson, Nemiah Gabbard, 18, of BaySide Park, is being held in the Hancock County Jail on $2,500 bond. He is charged with one count of burglary and was arrested Thursday.

Also arrested were two juveniles, ages 15 and 16, who were charged with two counts each of burglary.

Peterson said a .410 shotgun and a television set taken from one of the residences have been recovered.

The investigation, headed by Sheriff's Department Investigator Delbert Seay, is continuing and more arrests are expected, Peterson added.

Tidewater nixes merger

Tidewater Inc. of New Orleans announced that it has informed Irwin L. Jacobs that the proposal by the Jacobs Group to acquire all of Tidewater's outstanding common stock in a merger has been rejected.

Tidewater said that the principal reasons for the board's rejection of the proposal were that the board believed that the offering price range of the proposal did not reflect Tidewater's value and that the proposal would be contingent on the successful conclusion of an asset disposition program.

Under the terms of the previously disclosed proposal by the Jacobs Group, if an asset disposition program proposed by the Jacobs Group had been successfully concluded, Tidewater shareholders would have been offered not less than $25 but not more than $28 cash per share depending on the results of the disposition program.

The asset disposition program would have involved the sale of Tidewater's oil and gas and compression businesses.

In addition to owning and operating one of the world's largest fleets of vessels supporting the offshore oil and gas industry,

Tidewater also is active in oil and gas exploration and production and in the air and natural gas compression business, including the construction and operation of compressor stations and natural gas plants.

"Several articles of stolen property were also seized during the arrest," Ladner added.

IRS, AARP volunteers offering free income tax filing assistance

Free tax assistance is available in the Bay St. Louis area to taxpayers who cannot afford professional tax help, particularly to low income, elderly, non-English speaking and handicapped taxpayers.

Taxpayers with relatively simple tax returns can obtain help in preparing basic tax forms, such as the 1040 EZ and 1040 A federal returns through the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program.

VITA assistance is offered at the Bay St. Louis Public Library every Friday and Saturday until April 15.

The hours are from 10:15 a.m. until 12:15 p.m. on Fridays and from 9:30 a.m. until noon on Saturdays.

The library is located at 812 US-90 in Bay St. Louis.

Volunteer assistance to taxpayers over 60 years of age is offered at the Bay St. Louis library every Wednesday until April 15 from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

The program, called Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE), is operated by the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) in cooperative agreement with the Internal Revenue Service.

"It is important that persons seeking tax assistance bring with them essential tax documents, such as W-2 Forms, interest and Social Security statements (Forms 1099) and the package of 1984 tax forms which they received in the mail. They should also, if possible, bring a copy of the tax return which they submitted for the 1983 tax year," said Robert Fellestad of Diamondhead, director of the two programs.

The Internal Revenue Service provides training and technical assistance to tax volunteers, furnishes forms and publications and assists with publicity and organizational efforts.

Mississippi counties and cities are assisting by providing sites for the volunteer assistance, particularly in public libraries.

If needed, other volunteers will assist Fellestad, who has received special training for these programs from both IRS and AARP.

State public radio to air Bach Fest

In the words of Wagner, Johann Sebastian Bach is "the most stupendous miracle in all music."

In celebration of the 300th anniversary of the birth of Bach, Public Radio in Mississippi pays tribute by offering a special series of four programs recorded during the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center Bach Festival.

The programs will be aired on Mondays from 2-4 p.m. beginning Monday.

Bach was a composer not in tune with his time. A Baroque genius in an Age of Reason, Bach lived in relative obscurity. Only through the efforts of Mendelssohn, Schumann and others have his works been preserved. The music of Bach speaks most clearly to us today in this series devoted to some of his finest works, recorded during the Bach Festival at Alice Tully Hall in New York this past fall.

The series includes the U.S. debut of the renowned Academy of Ancient Music Chamber Ensemble from London. Under the direction of harpsichordist-conductor Christopher Hogwood, this group of nine specialists of Baroque and early Classical styles offer Bach's music as his audiences might have heard it. They perform on authentic instruments of the appropriate periods tuned to the lower pitch used in Bach's time.

Featured works include three of the six Brandenburg Concerti; three of the famous Church Cantatas; sonatas for violin and harpsichord, and flute and harpsichord; and several of Bach's finest concerti. Joining the Academy of Ancient Music and the highly accomplished members of the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center are special guest artists John Aler, tenor, and Arleen Auger, Soprano.

PRM frequency in Biloxi is 90.3 FM.

Jail prisoner attempts suicide

BY DENA BISNETTE

A Shoreline Park man who attempted suicide early Thursday while being held in the Hancock County Jail remained hospitalized Saturday.

A Hancock General Hospital spokesman said Carey J. Phillips, 35, was in stable condition Saturday. According to Sheriff Ronald Peterson, Phillips apparently broke a window in his cell and used pieces of glass to cut both wrists.

He said the suicide attempt was discovered by a jailer at about 5 a.m. and Phillips was taken to Hancock General Hospital.

At the time of the attempt, Phillips was being held on $35,000 bond. He was charged with possession of marijuana and unnatural intercourse.

"The arrest was made after a two to three-month investigation and a complaint from a 17-year-old male," Peterson said. Officers heading the investigation included Peterson, Sheriff's Department Investigators Alvin Ladner and Delbert Seay and Mississippi Highway Patrol Investigator T.P. Naylor.

The sheriff's department obtained a warrant to search Phillips' residence and seized a small amount of marijuana and several photographs related to the unnatural intercourse charge, Peterson said.

Child support judgements go unenforced

Editor
The Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir,
As a taxpayer in Hancock County I would like to know what has happened to child support laws in Mississippi.

Time and time again in Circuit Court a judge has ruled on the same case and nothing has been done.

Why is it that a judge will not enforce his own judgement?

I for one am getting tired of these men getting slapped on the wrist and their children having to do without. Why should anyone go through the expense of paying lawyers and court costs when all we get is a judgment that is not enforced?

When are the people of Hancock County going to wake up and do something about our legal system?

The law used to apply to everyone equally.

Now it seems to apply to just a few.

The Sea Coast Echo

Dear Editor:

My recent stay as a guest of the government at Keesler Medical Center has made me actually aware of the incomparable qualities of the people living in Bay St. Louis and Hancock County.

I know of no other place on earth where people are more sensitive to the needs of others. These friends and neighbors do not say: "If there is anything I can do let me know." They are people of action! They see what can be done...and they do it!

A few notable examples: John McKenna and "Deb" Gaines arrived at the Ward B—one to drive me home, the other to bring my car back. They patiently and cheerfully waited through about four hours of checking out procedure.

The minute the key turned in my lock—a dinner arrived, prepared by Gail T. Ames whose day by day attention are too numerous to list.

And Martha Van Peski—where does this very busy lady find the time to visit and pick up my papers?

The Phillip Davenport—may their tribe increase—drove miles on one of the coldest days of the year to look after my outside water pipes, and back again several times to check the yard.

"I have come to wash your clothes," an announcement made by both Gail Thames and Shirley Davenport. Others have said: "We'll bring your meals...we'll pick up your mail—your papers—start your car daily to keep the batter up—run your errands—shop."

All along these good people have seen what needs to be done, and are people of action. I haven't had to ask for a single favor. My recovery period isn't awkward! Good friends and neighbors have made it pleasant.

May God bless these caring people.

Tips offered to help prevent accidents in homes of elderly

The 410,000 Mississippians, 65 and older have many things in common other than their age. Their numbers are increasing and so is their vulnerability to accidents and injury. Surprisingly, a common site for elderly mishaps is the home.

In an effort to help older citizens avoid those home injuries suffered by 14 out of every 100 persons over age 65 annually, the Mississippi Council on Aging (MCOA) has offered some suggestions on how to make homes safer for the elderly.

The suggestions are part of MCOA's "Health Promotion Strategy for Older Mississippians," aimed at improving the health of a large segment of our population, said program specialist Willie Ruth Thompson.

These precautionary measures, which include ways to make stairways and halls, bathrooms, kitchens and bedrooms safer can aid in reducing home accidents among the elderly, she said.

MCOA suggested painting the top and bottom steps in halls and stairways with bright colors to call attention to them and increase an older person's depth of perception. Installation of mounted handrails and switches which operate from the top and bottom to ensure adequate lighting also can be added advantages for older persons.

MCOA also suggested that throw rugs in halls be removed or replaced with non-slip backing or taped-down edges.

Suggestions for improving bathroom safety include applying non-slip strips or mats in tubs and showers and adding grab-bars in the tub area for added support and balance.

Arranging dishes and other kitchen utensils so they can be reached without climbing on a chair will reduce the chance for falls, Ms. Thompson said. MCOA also advised elderly persons to make sure pot handles do not protrude from the stove when cooking and not to wear loose-fitting clothes while cooking, since they can snag objects or ignite if open flames are touched.

Placing a bedside lamp that can easily be turned on in the bedroom and wearing sturdy shoes rather than stockings and slippers can reduce the chances of nighttime injury.

Because burns are particularly likely to occur in the home, Ms. Thompson urged older citizens to install smoke detectors and make sure existing ones are properly located and maintained. Store fire extinguishers in easy-to-get-to places, and make sure persons know how to use them. Also, establishing a predetermined fire escape plan could save valuable time should a fire occur.

Another fire safety suggestion that may have an added financial benefit, but may require the assistance of an electrician or installer, is to reduce the temperature of water heaters. Most heaters are set at 140 degrees, and lower temperatures can lessen energy costs and reduce the chance of scalding.

Also, taking warm rather than hot baths is less tiring and may decrease difficulty of getting out of the tub.

"With age comes physical changes like poor circulation, altered walking patterns and increased risk of disease and injury," Ms. Thompson said.

"Each year, about 40,000 elderly persons (nationally) die from complications following fractures, which usually result from falls in the home. By following a few safety measures, homes can be made safer for our older citizens and their chances of injury reduced."

For more information on how to make homes safer for older citizens and other subjects relating to the aged, contact the Council on Aging at 802 N. State St., Jackson 39201, phone 354-6590 in the Jackson area, or the Governor's Service Line, toll-free 1-800-222-7622 from other areas of the state.

News From The Governor's Office

Gov. Bill Allain

Children in residential child-care facilities in Mississippi would be afforded the protection of minimal safety and health standards, if efforts by the Governor's Commission for Children and Youth (GCCY) to require licensing such facilities are successful.

GCCY has proposed a "Child Placement and Residential Child Care Licensing Act" that would require 24-hour residential child-care facilities to meet established minimum licensing standards to protect the health, safety and well-being of children under 18 who live in such facilities. The bill has been pre-filed for consideration by the 1985

Legislature.

"The minimum standards for licensing residential child-care facilities proposed in this law would assure parents and the public that such facilities provide safe and adequate care for children placed there," said Nellie Hutchison, director of the Commission for Children and Youth.

"We recognize that there are many good programs out there that are not licensed, but our intent is to ensure that every child who must live in a residential setting, apart from his parents and outside his home, received good care."

The proposed law would designate a division of the State Department of Public Welfare to issue licenses and establish standards to cover financial, professional and personal qualifications of applicants, and ensure that facilities comply with prescribed health and safety standards, employ qualified staff and offer a comprehensive program of services to the child.

The bill also creates a 15-member state advisory commission, to be composed of parents, providers and professionals in child care, that will review standards and regulations and formulate policy.

"The present law governing residential child-care facilities exempts facilities operated by fraternal organizations and religious denominations and provides no penalties for facilities which operate without licensure," Hutchison said. "The proposed law provides for inspection and enforcement procedures and establishes penalties for non-compliance."

Facilities such as boarding schools, nursing or convalescent homes, recreation camps and facilities licensed or operated by other departments or subdivisions of the state would be exempted under the proposed law.

Approximately 900 children currently live in child-care facilities that voluntarily choose to be licensed, Hutchison said. Another 800 reside in unlicensed facilities throughout the state, according to estimates by the State Department of Public Welfare.

"We have a responsibility to the children who cannot, for whatever reason, live with their families," she added.

Education A wise investment

Investments...they're made for profit. We invest money or talent or time for the purpose of getting ahead. It's good business.

But profits aren't always calculated in dollars and cents or measured by dividends or interest earned. Take education, for example. Money appropriated to support academic excellence in our public universities is an investment by the state in the preparation of its future leaders...its future citizens. It's an investment in the future. Period. And it doesn't take a Wall Street wizard to add up the profits.

The hands of higher education in this state reach far beyond the walls of academia. Hands that grant diplomas not only teach, but offer services and programs, which, directly or indirectly, improve the lives of all citizens of Mississippi.

Through teaching, research and service programs, the state's eight public universities extend their grasp to touch all corners of Mississippi to promote total development of our state.

The very presence of a university in a city or town acts as a plus in drawing industries and businesses to the area. Expertise in a variety of fields and technology in many areas of value to industry are here; there's no need to go outside the state for such services when the talent and facilities are in Mississippi.

Economic development in the state is tied very closely to Mississippi's educational system. Business leaders realize that colleges and universities provide educational, cultural and leadership benefits which enhance the quality of life for citizens in all 82 counties of this state.

In assessing some of the services offered by state universities, the average citizen might ask: "Who are the people who provide these services?" They are not overpaid bureaucrats who do not care about the public. Most are highly motivated well-trained people who put service above self. They are also taxpayers.

Salaries for faculty and staff members must be competitive. It is imperative that the universities in this state retain...and attract well-qualified, conscientious educators. Our teachers are the heart of our educational system. And right now Mississippi's average faculty salaries are lagging behind others in the Southern Region. In fact, in order for Mississippi's 1985-86 average faculty salaries to "catch up" to the Southern Regional Education Board (SREB) region's 1983-84 average faculty salaries, appropriations of almost $4.5 million would be required of the 1985 Legislature. The situation is serious. We urge support for faculty catch-up funding.

The people of Mississippi want their money's worth for the dollars they are spending for education. And we're convinced that the citizens of this state are reaping the dividends from their investments.

The hands of higher education do touch all of our lives. The state's universities extend their reach to all corners of Mississippi, delivering services directly to the people.

An investment in education is a wise one. The profits are immeasurable.

State's highway death toll drops

Lt. Col Kenneth R. Dukes, assistant chief of the Highway Patrol, has announced that the number of traffic fatalities in Mississippi dropped significantly in 1984 compared to 1983.

A preliminary statistical summary shows that 677 people lost their lives in traffic accidents in 1984 compared to 716 deaths in 1983.

A final report on the number of fatalities will not be available for several weeks.

The 677 total was the fourth lowest fatality count in the last 20 years, and 1984 marked the first time since 1980 that the death toll dropped below 700.

The 1984 total was well below Mississippi's all-time record of 951 traffic fatalities set in 1971, two and one-half years before the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit was adopted.

"Higher public awareness of the need for automobile safety and increased enforcement of traffic laws by local, county and state officers are the primary reasons for the reduced number of traffic deaths," Dukes said.

"Law enforcement officers at all levels have made a special effort to enforce traffic laws, and the results are showing up in year-end statistics."

"The best friend the Highway Patrol has had in the past year has been the news media," Dukes said. "They have stressed the serious consequences of being arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol and have constantly reminded motorists that state troopers were concentrating on DUI arrests."

Lt. Bob Wallace, the Highway Patrol's statistician, said state troopers issued 11,553 DUI charges in the first 11 months of 1984 compared to 10,969 for the same period in 1983.

Wallace said there were 280,674 separate charges of traffic law violations made by state troopers during the first 11 months of 1984 compared to 272,292 for the same period the previous year.

Dukes said the increased enforcement activity of state troopers has been accompanied by a reduction in the cost per mile of operating Highway Patrol vehicles.

"Our troopers have made a concerted effort to save money by operating their vehicles more efficiently during the past year," Dukes said.

"The troopers reduced the cost per mile by one-half cent. That does not sound like much at first; but when you multiply that times the number of miles that were driven, it adds up to $62,969 in total savings over the year 1983."

"The officers of the Highway Patrol realized early in Gov. Bill Allain's administration that they would be required to work hard and they have made a 100 percent effort to enforce the laws in an efficient and professional manner.

"The lowered traffic fatality count is a reward for their special effort," Dukes said.

—1 Peter 4:11

By W. Edwin Kearley, Minister
501 Pine St. Bay St. LouisFAITH (PART 3)

The faith which caused one to believe in Jesus as God's Son, to repent of his sins, confess his faith in Christ before men; and be baptized for the forgiveness of his sins, must continue to grow.

Peter said we must add to our faith. He said it in the following words, "And beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to your virtue knowledge; and to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; and to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity." (II Peter 1:5-7)

The characteristics listed above are called "the Christian Graces."

As our faith grows, we will grow in these and other things.

Many stay on the edge of the water after they are baptized as far as their spiritual is concerned. They may be called a people of little faith.

Jesus designated those overly concerned about food and clothing, "O ye of little faith." (Matthew 6:30)

He had said, "And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not neither do they spin; and yet I say unto you, that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. Wherefore, if God doth so clothe the grass of the field, which today is, and tomorrow is cast into the oven; shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?" (Matthew 6:28-30)

Jesus commended the Centurion for his "great faith." The Centurion came to Jesus asking him to heal his servant who was sick of palsy and grievously tormented.

The Lord offered to come to his house and heal the servant, but the Centurion informed Jesus he knew about authority. He asked Jesus to "but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed."

"When Jesus heard it, he marvelled, and said unto them that followed, verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel." (Matthew 8:5-10)

Abraham's faith resulted in his being called the friend of God. He obeyed the Lord in sacrificing his son, Isaac, with all intents and purposes. James said, "Seest thou how faith wrought with his works, and by works as faith made perfect." (James 2:22)

We today need to imitate the Centurion and Abraham. There is a great need for faith strong enough to prompt us to worship and serve the Lord.

May we turn from the influence of apathy, immorality and atheism which are around us. The church of the Lord is the family of God. (I Timothy 3:15)

The family must be close knit, if it is to function as a family should. The church must have a close relationship to enable it to function as it should.

How can we attain the needed growth in faith? Peter tells us the answer, "Wherefore laying aside all malice, and all guile, and all evil speakings, as new born babes, desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby." (I Peter 2:1-2)

Christians must grow in graciousness or favor of God. "But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and savior Jesus Christ." (II Peter 3:18)

Not only must we grow in our practice but we must teach others. (Hebrews 5:12)

The church at Rome had grown so much that people everywhere knew of the Roman's spiritual development. Paul said to them, "First, I thank God through Jesus Christ for you all, that your faith is spoken of throughout the whole world." (Romans 1:8)

Matters of HealthSCHOOL LUNCHES

Q: I have a hard time coming up with ideas for my children's brown-bag lunches. Have you any suggestions for nutritious, easily-prepared lunches?

A: Nutritious lunches are an important part of school-age children's diets. Good nutrition is crucial for proper growth.

What children learn in school about good nutrition can be reinforced by eating healthful foods, so the school years are the best time to instill proper lifetime eating habits.

Children should eat foods that contain essential nutrients, as well as calories, called "nutrient dense foods." In contrast, children should limit their consumption of high calorie foods with low nutrient value, called "empty calorie foods" like candy, pie, cake and potato chips. Empty calorie foods that are high in sugar and/or fat can often contribute to children becoming overweight. Foods high in sugar may also cause tooth decay.

A nutritious meal includes foods selected from the four basic food groups—milk and dairy products, meat, fruit and vegetables, and breads and cereals. A lunch made of these four groups might consist of a peanut butter sandwich on whole wheat bread, celery sticks, an orange and a glass of milk.

Children may enjoy alternatives to sandwiches, too. Leftovers from dinner may be heated and sent in a wide-mouth thermos. A lunch of leftovers might consist of beef-vegetable stew, bread or crackers, an apple and milk. A lunch containing cut, fresh vegetables, fruits, and whole grain breads is higher in fiber, and adds bulk to the diet, aiding in digestion.

Even if a child prefers sandwiches, for variety, select many kinds of breads and rolls. Generally, whole wheat bread is considered more nutritious, but when buying bread, read the list of ingredients on the label to determine which is the most nutritious for the money.

Bread labeled "whole wheat" must be made with 100 percent whole wheat flour. Be aware that breads labeled "enriched wheat flour," "bleached" or "unbleached wheat flour" are not 100 percent whole wheat. Other whole grain breads are rye and pumpernickel.

Breads labeled "grain" are often a combination of refined flour, plus other flours, with the addition of caramel coloring. On the other hand, most white breads are enriched with three of the B vitamins, plus iron, and usually cost less than whole wheat and other grain breads.

When preparing lunches of school children, avoid highly salted meat and snack foods, like potato and corn chips. These foods may make children thirsty, and during school, they are not always able to get a drink when they want.

Limited salt consumption, also, is a wise idea for children who purchase lunches at school. Public school lunches, which depend on federal food surpluses, tend to be high in salt. Although everyone requires some salt, Americans may consume more than the recommended amount.

High blood pressure, which has been linked to the amount of salt people consume, affects between 15 to 20 percent of adult population and is twice as common among black people as it is among the white population in the U.S. The committee on nutrition of the American Academy of Pediatrics estimate that 20 percent of the children in the U.S. are at risk for developing hypertension and recommends that children try to restrict their intake of salt.

A nutritious lunch is important, but studies show that children who also eat breakfast perform better on school tests until lunchtime. Many school programs include a mid-morning snack period, especially for young children. Cheese and fresh fruit, hot cereal in a thermos and instant breakfast mix with milk are among the many possible combinations for a snack.

Food habits that children establish during the early years can last a lifetime. Helping them to learn about good nutrition can help them to feel better and stay healthier.

Teenage sexuality among topics of free forum at Slidell High

A free forum providing information on communication between parents and their children along with short talks by five professionals in the field will be presented at the Slidell High School's cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The program is cosponsored by the Slidell Center for Psychotherapy and the North Shore Psychiatric Hospital. Topics will range from teenage sexuality to how to recognize the first signs of alcohol or drug abuse in friends and loved ones. Speakers and their topics include:

—Judge Gus Fritchie who will discuss the types of decisions he has had to make as a juvenile court judge. And, he will reveal his views on young people and families formed from his experiences on the bench.

—William A. Bloom, MD, will examine whether Slidell young people face a greater threat from drugs because of the city's "crossroads" location. Dr. Bloom has years of experience treating drug abuse in St. Tammany and will offer hints on when you should worry about drug abuse in others and what you can do to help.

—Dr. John Vogel will examine communication within the family. He will share guidelines he has developed for parents and teenagers to enhance their ability to talk to each other.

—Jack Queyrouze will offer insights into teenage depression and teenage suicide...the second leading cause of teenage death. A clinical social worker, Queyrouze has counseled young people during every stage of depression. More importantly, he will offer suggestions on how you can help prevent suicide.

—Dr. Lee Spencer believes sexual issues are among the most difficult problems for teenagers and parents to discuss. She will discuss the area of teenage sexuality and suggest ways adolescents and their parents can approach and discuss the topic in an open and responsible way.

The forum is open to the public and you need not be a student or have children attending Slidell High School to attend.

The North Shore Psychiatric Hospital is a new 46-bed psychiatric facility scheduled to open in September. It will be staffed by a mental health care team already doing business as the Slidell Center for Psychotherapy. Team members will include psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers and psychiatric nurse.

This forum, entitled An Adolescent Forum, is the first of what hospital administrator James A. Coleman promises to be a series of such community service programs. Others will cover stress, personal growth, business management and more.

Bob Fry, the hospital's community relations representative, will serve as moderator for the program. He notes the talks will be very short with most of the time reserved for questions and answers to insure that everyone attending will gain information of direct benefit to them.

Wastewater spill cleanup underway

The contaminated water spill at National Space Technologies Laboratories should be cleaned up in less than two weeks, Lt. Col. R. W. Bregard, commander for the Mississippi Army Ammunitions Plant, said Friday.

The clean-up operation was scheduled to begin Saturday morning to remove the 13,000 gallon spill of chromium-contaminated water at MAAP.

Bregard said, the wastewater, which is used as a machine coolant in production at MAAP, leaked into the ground from a cracked concrete container Tuesday night.

"The spilled water is stationary below and just west of the containment area," Bregard said.

The water had been placed in the containment after the 30,000 gallon tank it was being held in began to leak, he said.

The contaminated water will be pumped out of the ground into storage tanks before being pumped out or treated at the facility.

Bregard said there is no danger and the situation is being closely monitored.

Pace told the commission he has heard several proposals from investors interested in buying the rights to the Limited's Mobile to New Orleans run.

Wilcox was named as a member of a committee appointed to look into the possibility.

Other efforts to reinstate the Limited include a petition drive and the possibility of an advance on funding promised by Louisiana.

In addition to attempting to reinstate the Limited, the commission is still trying to add the state of Florida to its membership, establish a rail line from Mobile to Jacksonville, Fla., and start a commuter train from Mobile to New Orleans.

Terri Rhodes leads Lady Wildcats to 75-57 victory

Terri Rhodes of Bay St. Louis scored 17 of her 19 points in the second half in Ellenville Tuesday to lead the Pearl River College Lady Wildcats to a 75-57 win over the Jones Lady Bobcats.

The south division win evened the Lady Cats' record at 7-7 for the year and improved their conference mark to 3-4.

Rhodes, a 5'7" freshman guard, who started last year for the Lady Tigers in Bay St. Louis, took coach Ned Eades' halftime advice.

"He told us to move the ball around more and take the open jump shots," Rhodes said in a radio interview after the game.

Debra Powell, a freshman forward from Sumrall, netted 16 for PRC while sophomore Betsy Arcement, a graduate of Hancock North Central tallied 12. Poplarville sophomore Arlisa Silas scored 11.

The Lady Wildcats were to play Gulf Coast at home Thursday night and they are scheduled to take on Hinds at Raymond on Monday.

Employment outlook bright

Despite some cooling of the economy last fall, the employment picture looks bright for 1985, according to a human resources management consultant.

Andrew Sherwood, president and chief executive officer of The Goodrich & Sherwood Company in New York, points to an increase in help-wanted advertising, encouraging hiring plans of companies and information that fewer companies plan to cut staff in the year ahead.

A recent survey by his firm of 900 businesses reveals that 75 percent will hire at the same or increased rate over last year.

While a sizzling market for engineers and highly skilled professionals has simmered down and the hiring of senior and middle managers has ebbed from a 1984 high, employment will continue at a steady pace in these areas and the health care, retailing and service sectors in the year ahead.

Businesses where white collar hiring may slacken, he says, include banking, financial services, high tech companies and troubled industries like steel and coal.

Every man has a right to his opinion, but no man has a right to be wrong in his facts.

Farmer—Gex

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church was the setting for the December 29 marriage of Rachel Kathleen Gex of Bay St. Louis and Bryan Pierce Farmer of Atlanta, Ga. The Rev. Francis Farrell officiated at the 11 a.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Joseph Gex III of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Farmer of Atlanta.

Nuptial music was presented by organist Mrs. James Mahler and soloist Mrs. Alan Noonan.

Large arrangements of curly willow, Gerbera daisies, Carmen tulips and sprengeri fern decorated the main altar, with similar arrangements flanking the side altars. Garlands and greenery completed the decorations in the sanctuary.

Pews of the center aisle were adorned with arrangements of tulips, Baccara roses, baby's breath and sprengeri fern.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore her mother's wedding gown of ivory slipper satin with batik and lace applique collar on the portrait neckline, fitted bodice with basque waistline, and long, fitted sleeves ending in calla points. Her full circular skirt was fashioned with a chapel length train.

She wore a Mary Queen of Scots hat covered with matching lace with tiny satin ribbons securing her chapel length veil of illusion.

She carried a clutch style bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis, baby's breath and fern. Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Leslie Furman of Miami, Florida.

Bridesmaids were Misses Kim Furman of Miami; Michelle Moore of Long Beach; Susan Purvis of Natchez, Miss.; Patricia Newman of Valley Park, Miss., cousin of the bride; and Niki Gex of Pass Christian, cousin of the bride.

Bridesmaids also included were Misses Lamar Billups and Josephine Billups of Pass Christian, cousins of the bride; Kim Farmer of Atlanta, sister of the groom; and Delarie Ladner of Pass Christian.

The attendants were identically attired in ivory tea length moire taffeta gowns in princess style. Each featured a modified sweetheart neckline enhanced with self-bows defining the shoulder line above brief cap sleeves. They wore point d'esprit gloves tied with satin ribbons at the wrist and carried free-style clutch bouquets of Carmen tulips, roses and baby's breath and fern.

Miss Audra Brassfield of Atlanta, cousin of the groom, was flower girl. She wore an ivory French batiste tea length dress and dropped rose petals in the path of the bride from a basket fashioned of potpourri.

Mr. Kenneth Farmer served his son as best man.

Groomsmen were Mr. Joe Gex of Bay St. Louis, brother of the bride; Mr. David Bass and Mr. Kyle Gordon of Jackson, Miss.; Mr. Andy Elchos of Bay St. Louis; Mr. Buddy Farmer of Augusta, Ga.; Mr.

Michael Knight of Raleigh, N.C.; and Mr. Randy Metz of North Augusta, S.C., cousin of the groom.

Groomsmen also included Mr. Seth Rogers of Winona, Miss. and Mr. Randy Caldwell of Atlanta.

Ushers were Mr. Joedy Gex of Bay St. Louis and Mr. Lucien Gex III of Waveland, cousins of the bride; and Mr. Laddie Renfro of Nashu, N.H.

Ringbearer was Mr. Tommy Propst of Atlanta.

Mrs. Gex chose for her daughter's wedding a blue-violet silk tea length dress featuring a square collar edged with crochet lace and dropped waistline above a full gathered skirt with handkerchief hemline.

Mrs. Farmer was attired in a mauve ribbonlace dress with a capelet collar above a fitted bodice, and a slim skirt.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Diamondhead Country Club. Following a wedding trip to Ixtapa, Mex., the couple resides in Oxford, Miss.

"Central America - Our Concern" American Legion Post 77 Auxiliary

By Dr. Esther Oschmann
Foreign Relations Chairman

Speaking to a joint session of Congress in April 1964, President Reagan explained the importance of helping Central America:

"Central America's problems do directly affect the security and the well-being of our own people. And Central America is much closer to the United States than many of the world trouble spots that concern us."

The President ended his remarks with this plea:

"The national security of all the Americas is at stake in Central America. If we cannot defend ourselves there, we cannot expect to prevail elsewhere. Our credibility would collapse, our alliances would crumble, and the safety of our homeland would be put at jeopardy."

"We have a vital interest, a moral duty, and a solemn responsibility. This is not a partisan issue."

"It is a question of our meeting our moral responsibility to ourselves, our friends, and our posterity. It is a duty that falls on all of us—the President, the Congress and the people."

"We must perform it together. Who among us would wish to bear responsibility for failing to meet our shared obligations?"

A few months later the President appointed a national bipartisan commission on Central America which intensively studied U.S. policy on Central America for six months.

In its final report, the commission recommended a long-term, comprehensive plan to help stop Communism and to help promote democracy in Central America.

In testifying before the commission, Past National Commander Keith Kreul of the American Legion called for an approach almost identical which was recommended by the committee.

The keystone of U.S. policy for Central America should be a long-term "Marshall-type plan" applicable to the entire Caribbean basin.

Since World War II, U.S. policy toward the area has been marked by short-lived intense periods of activity—such as those men at the Bay of Pigs, Cuban Missile Crisis, Dominican intervention—followed by neglect.

Our declining interest has coincided with expanding Soviet-Cuban diplomatic, cultural, economic, and military activities.

To have a positive long-term effect in the Caribbean basin, the U.S. needs to institute a "Marshall-type plan" because that approach would be:

- 1. Comprehensive;
- 2. Multilateral;
- 3. Long-term;
- 4. Understandable;
- 5. Morale-building.

The American Legion Auxiliary's project to assist in the humanitarian efforts of Father Flavian Mucci in El Salvador is clearly in keeping with the importance of events in "our own backyard."

Father Mucci came to attention following his remarks to a weekly meeting of the White House Outreach working group on Central America. At its 66th National Convention in Salt Lake City, the American Legion Auxiliary adopted El Salvador through Resolution 68.

This country has five million people who live in an area the size of Massachusetts.

The average per-capita income is $1,000 per year. It is the smallest non-island nation in the Western Hemisphere, and its people need help.

The project of the American Legion Auxiliary is to build a home for children in Sonsonate, El Salvador.

Last March, Past National Commander Keith Kreul visited El Salvador for a first-hand look.

He stated, "The American Legion is convinced a long-term U.S. commitment to Central America is an absolutely vital investment in our own future."

The warfare taking place in El Salvador has left many, many orphaned and homeless children in its wake.

Father Flavian Mucci, an American priest who was born and raised in Boston and educated in the U.S., will oversee this project.

He has been in that country since 1968 and has helped the neglected children of El Salvador.

Father Flavian Mucci has been recognized for his efforts with many awards, including the "Jose Matias Delgado Medal," the nation's highest honor.

Father Mucci is one of the few foreigners in El Salvador to be decorated with this medal.

He founded the first children's village in the town of Sonsonate in 1976. Father Mucci has since constructed a large complex in this town which provides food and housing for both refugees and Sonsonate's many unemployed.

The complex also contains a children's hospital, a home for single mothers and Am-Fm radio station, a retreat house, seven workshops and recently completed convent.

Father Mucci says that for many children, it is their first opportunity to attend school and have a family life.

The children help by growing their own vegetables. This not only teaches them farming, but also saves them a great deal of money.

An old age home is also under construction to give shelter to at least 100 poverty-stricken elderly who have no place to go.

Where the new clinical home for special children is completed, the elderly in an adjacent facility will have an active role in the care of these youngsters.

In their own last years, they will provide the love so richly deserved by the helpless.

All members of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 77 are urged to contribute to this worthy project.

Daughters of American Revolution

Friendship Oak Chapter

Delegates for the Feb. 21-23 state convention were named at the recent meeting of the Friendship Oak Chapter, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution.

The delegates include Mrs. James R. Thomas, Mrs. William J. Gemmel, Mrs. Larry R. Lisenbee, Mrs. James R. Young, Mrs. Joe Pilet and Mrs. Francis F. Erhard, alternate.

Our guest speaker was Junita Gex of Picayune, the Mississippi state chairman of "Liberty Love." DAR Mrs. Gex talked on the history of the Statue of Liberty. It was noted that America would provide for the foundation and pedestal which finally came about by donations in small denominations. The French would provide the statue through donations. It was hoped the unveiling would take place 100 years after the Declaration of Independence, but the statue was not in place and the unveiling took place Oct. 28, 1886.

Following the program refreshments were enjoyed by all. Mrs. Phillip R. Davenport, regent, presided.

Two-income families face new problems

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a three-part series on personal and financial decisions faced by two-paycheck families.

By Mary Jo Wallace
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Gone is yesterday's one-paycheck family. Vanished is the image of mom standing at the door handing out kisses and lunch money as dad and the kids go off to work and school.

Today, most moms are out earning that lunch money. They have become part of a whole family economic system called the two-paycheck family. With the extra cash that system brings comes a host of new problems.

These problems individually appear simple, like who is going to clean up breakfast dishes. When considered collectively, however, problems get more severe and often can wreck marriages.

Dealing with these problems has given rise to the need for family advisors such as Beverly Riggs, family economics and management specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Miss Riggs counsels individuals and couples in Mississippi who are trying to work through the problems generated by two incomes.

"When mom stayed home during the day, the chores at home naturally became her responsibility, but today families must divide those chores in some way that is acceptable to everyone involved. Families have to decide who will do what in the family and those decisions, or the lack of them, is the source of many modern family conflicts."

"Today, many people are marrying later in life and have already established independent credits and buying habits before their marriage. This is another factor that can contribute to problems, she said."

For instance, both partners may be making car and furniture payments at the time of their marriage. This can compound their credit load and result in their being unable to meet all debts.

"Often, these couples take no thought of which partner has the greater income," Miss Riggs said. "They adopt an 'I pay my way; you pay your way' attitude and insist on splitting expenses down the middle—even to the point of splitting grocery expenses in half."

"Some cooperation must be established. Even though a separate bank account can help to build a credit rating for a wife just entering the job market without established credit, couples must communicate on the subject of how bills will be paid so that a fair and efficient method can be worked out."

Three possible methods may be used by couples when making decisions about expenses and savings: Some couples contribute equal amounts into household expense and savings accounts; others contribute a percentage of their individual salaries; and still other couples combine all of their income to be used for expenses and savings.

In any case, decisions must be made about individual purchases, and whether each partner is free to spend a certain amount without consulting the other.

Miss Riggs said communication is the key to reaching agreement on a schedule of household chores. She offers guidelines to people who are developing such schedules. The guidelines include:

—List all household chores in order of importance.

—Delegate responsibility for those chores among family members.

—If necessary, lower cleaning and cooking standards.

—Don't try to be a "super person" by trying to hold down a job and at the same time insist on a perfectly run household.

—Consider hiring help if it is affordable.

Two-paycheck families face more complicated questions such as: How will income be divided? Should each partner have money that is not accountable to the other? Who will pay bills? Should the husband be responsible for basics and the wife for frills? Should the partner who earns more money have more say in financial decisions? Should each partner have a separate bank account, or should all earnings be placed in a joint account?

"Families must work out the answers to these and other questions to their own satisfaction," Miss Riggs said. "No one system will suit everyone because individual needs, values, interests and personalities differ."

Miss Riggs said about half of the people who come to her for help in managing finances are women; one-fourth are men; and one-fourth are couples who are mutually concerned.

Miss Riggs said that since financial decisions were traditionally part of the male role, many women are unfamiliar with credit laws. The Equal Credit Opportunity Act, passed in 1975, gives women the right to be considered for credit by the same standards as men.

For instance, a woman can apply for an account based only on her income. If she is credit-worthy, then questions about her husband's salary cannot be asked.

It is illegal to question an applicant about birth control practices or childbearing plans.

Credit cannot be refused solely because of a change in marital status.

A married person cannot be denied credit because of a spouse's poor credit rating as long as the application is not for a joint account.

Clubs, Auxiliaries

American Legion Post 77 Unit Auxiliary

January has been a busy month for the Bourgeois-Stieff-Ray American Legion Post 77 Unit auxiliary.

Six new members were accepted at the regular monthly meeting and plans were formulated for a leadership development course and for the revising of the auxiliary's constitution and by-laws.

Lois Fallo asked for "comfort needs" for the veterans at the Gulfport VA, and Gloria Norton sent out a call for contributions to the Basic Life Skills program at Hancock North Central.

Everything is needed—cooking utensils, small appliances, plants—even a used washer and dryer would be appreciated!

In addition to the regular monthly meeting, 15 of the members traveled to the Department of Mississippi Mid-Winter Conference in Jackson, Jan. 11 through 13.

Those attending the conference included Gloria Norton, Eleanor Marsh, Dorothy Bielstein, Eunice Revere, Myrtle Blanchard, Shirley Williams, Hedi Klein, Lois Fallo, Betty LaFontaine, Lydia Rutherford, Janice Barrett, Helen Hebert, Bea Doyle and Pat Decker.

The highlight of the conference was an appearance by the national president, Mrs. Helen Adams Gardner.

Diamondhead Garden Club

The Diamondhead Garden Club met in the former Sales Lodge on Wednesday, Jan. 16 and heard reports from the following chairmen:

—Mrs. George Kollasch, commercial beautification, said the award had been given for January to the Chevron Gas Station.

—Mrs. W.H. Marshall, membership, said that two new members had been taken in, Mrs. Roger Onarti and Mrs. Fred Simonson.

—Mrs. William Neff, birds, discussed the blackbird.

—Mrs. William Temple, energy conservation, reported on an Energy Awareness Conference recently held at Gulf Park College and gave several energy-saving tips to the club members.

—Mrs. Harold V. Morris, landscape design/horticulture, titled her report "Spruce Up For Spring" and gave ideas how to accomplish it.

—Mrs. Wayne Wadlington, roadsides and wildflowers, said that four magnolia trees had been planted in Diamondhead.

—Mrs. Harold Mitchell, pilgrimage, asked for volunteers for hostesses at some of the homes on the Diamondhead Pilgrimage March 22.

—Mrs. T.V. Fredian, flower show, said the date for the Flower Show was April 12-13, with artistic design workshops scheduled for March 6, 13 and 27 at the home of Mrs. Hillaire Ogden.

—Mrs. Stanley Haight, Mardi Gras, asked for help making the garden club's float.

—Mrs. N. Cotton, Garden of the Month, chose the home of Mr. and Mrs. Strabo V. Claggett for the January award.

Mrs. Morris told of having helped the Girl Scouts with the potting of bulbs and iris, which they will enter in their division of the club's Flower Show, and will subsequently plant on the Diamondhead grounds.

Mrs. Boyan Leshin who had delivered to the Reed Nursing Home the Christmas gifts that club members brought to the Christmas party relayed the thanks of the officials of the home.

Guests attending were Mrs. L. Blish and Mrs. J. Seymour. The president, Mrs. R. B. Boatright announced that the club's corresponding secretary, Mrs. Evans, had been asked to be a member of the board of trustees of the headquarters of the Garden Clubs of Mississippi.

She also said that the February meeting would be held in the former Sales Lodge.

A "Show and Tell" program on collages was given by Mrs. John Newkirk, president of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club. She displayed six collages she had made and gave an informative talk on how to make them.

Philo addresses legal secretaries

Jane Philo, director of the Gulf Coast Women's Center, Biloxi, addressed the Harrison-Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association at their January meeting at the Beachfront Holiday Inn, Gulfport.

Philo, director of the center for the past year, discussed battered and sexually-abused women and children.

The center assists women who have nowhere to go when abused and helps to get them started again in society by trying to find them jobs and homes.

According to Philo, for a low economic level family, the wait for public housing is as long as a year in some cases and placing these families sometimes can be a problem. There are also rehabilitation programs for all who are sheltered at the center and programs for their pre-school children.

Philo voiced praise for the Biloxi Police Department which has given the center a two-minute response in most instances and has cooperated with the center when needed.

In other business the members welcomed Carol Kelly, employed by Woodrow W. Pringle III, as a guest.

New members initiated by President Billie Ruddick, assisted by Vice President Christy Freeman, included Tracey Clifton, Cathy Schroeder, Dot Ladner, Marie Watts and Althea Creel.

The legal education quiz was given by Christy Freeman in the absence of Patsy Bishop.

The National Association of Legal Secretaries Advanced Course will be held from Feb. 12 to May 7; and NALS Course Chairman Debbie Butler reported that applications are being mailed at this time.

Legal directories are still on sale at $4 each and may be obtained from chapter members.

The fall board meeting of the Mississippi Association of Legal Secretaries will be on Jan. 26 and 27 in Laurel. Governor Ilyne Stewart, along with other state officers and chairmen, from Harrison-Hancock, will be attending. Any other members who wish to attend should contact Stewart concerning room reservations.

The next chapter meeting will be Feb. 14 at the Beachfront Holiday Inn, Gulfport at 6:30 p.m.
